

IMMIGRANTS ARE A VITAL PART OF ARIZONA'S FUTURE

Just as we came together from different places and races to build Arizona in past decades, a strong future for our state includes immigrants

Immigrant workers and business owners grow Arizona's economy

Nearly 1 million immigrants reside in Arizona. Immigrants work in low-wage, middle-wage, and higher-wage jobs in sectors across our state's economy.

16% of Arizona workers are immigrants, including:

20% of Main Street business owners in Arizona are immigrants, operating storefront shops that help keep downtown areas vibrant

29% of packers and packagers

27% of software developers

22% of nursing assistants

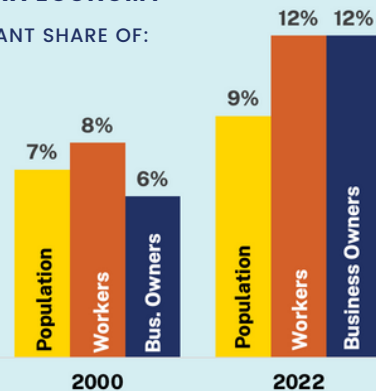

It turns out that immigrant workers and business owners generate $71 billion of economic output in Arizona. Immigrant contribution to GDP is about the same as immigrant share of the labor force.

Immigration increases opportunity for Arizonans

When immigrants move to Arizona, the economy grows. That doesn't mean fewer jobs, it means more jobs: there are more consumers, more workers, and more business owners. Study after study shows there is no fixed number of jobs in a state. Immigration creates opportunities that benefit U.S.-born workers too.

IMMIGRANTS ARE PART OF A GROWING ARIZONA ECONOMY

As Arizonans age, we'll need more workers

As our population ages, new immigrants help keep our economy growing at a sustainable rate. Immigrants help meet growing needs for health care, home care, and supportive services that are key for older Arizonans to have a dignified retirement.

Some people try to scapegoat immigrants to keep us divided. We don't have to fall for it.

After decades of stagnating wages, today wage growth is starting to move in the right direction. We know how to create a good economy for workers. It requires uniting around policy choices like investments in infrastructure, manufacturing, and our care economy with strong labor standards. Regardless of race or country of birth, we all do better when we unite for policies that grow jobs and wages.
