

IMMIGRANTS ARE A VITAL PART OF GEORGIA'S FUTURE

Just as we came together from different places and races to build Georgia in past decades, a strong future for our state includes immigrants

Immigrant workers and business owners grow Georgia's economy

More than 1 million immigrants reside in Georgia. Immigrants work in low-wage, middle-wage, and higher-wage jobs in sectors across our state's economy.

14% of Georgian workers are immigrants, including

25% of Main Street business owners in Georgia are immigrants,

operating storefront shops that help keep downtown areas vibrant

16% of accountants and auditors

41% of software developers

25% of home health aides

It turns out that immigrant workers and business owners generate $115 billion of economic output in Georgia. Immigrant contribution to GDP is about the same as immigrant share of the labor force.

Immigration increases opportunity for Georgians

When immigrants move to Georgia, the economy grows. That doesn't mean fewer jobs, it means more jobs: there are more consumers, more workers, and more business owners. Study after study shows there is no fixed number of jobs in a state. Immigration creates opportunities that benefit U.S.-born workers too.

IMMIGRANTS ARE PART OF A GROWING GEORGIA ECONOMY

As Georgians age, we'll need more workers

As our population ages, new immigrants help keep our economy growing at a sustainable rate. Immigrants help meet growing needs for health care, home care, and supportive services that are key for older Georgians to have a dignified retirement.

Some people try to scapegoat immigrants to keep us divided. We don't have to fall for it.

After decades of stagnating wages, today wage growth is starting to move in the right direction. We know how to create a good economy for workers. It requires uniting around policy choices like investments in infrastructure, manufacturing, and our care economy with strong labor standards. Regardless of race or country of birth, we all do better when we unite for policies that grow jobs and wages.
