

IMMIGRANTS ARE A VITAL PART OF NEW YORK STATE

Just as we came together from different places and races to build New York in past decades, a strong future for our state includes immigrants

Immigrant workers and business owners grow New York's economy

4.5 million immigrants reside in New York. Immigrants work in low-wage, middle-wage, and higher-wage jobs in sectors across our state's economy.

41% of Main Street business owners in New York State are immigrants, operating storefront shops that help keep downtown areas vibrant

27% of workers in New York State are immigrants, including:

29% of accountants

71% of home health aides

34% of computer programmers

It turns out that immigrant workers and business owners generate $497 billion of economic output in New York State. Immigrant contribution to GDP is about the same as immigrant share of the labor force.

Immigration increases opportunity for New York

When immigrants move to New York, the economy grows. That doesn't mean fewer jobs, it means more jobs: there are more consumers, more workers, and more business owners. Study after study shows there is no fixed number of jobs in a state. Immigration creates opportunities that benefit U.S.-born workers too.

IMMIGRANTS ARE PART OF A GROWING NEW YORK ECONOMY

IMMIGRANT SHARE OF:

As New Yorkers age, we'll need more workers

As our population ages, new immigrants help keep our economy growing at a sustainable rate. Immigrants help meet growing needs for health care, home care, and supportive services that are key for older New Yorkers to have a dignified retirement.

Some people try to scapegoat immigrants to keep us divided. We don't have to fall for it.

After decades of stagnating wages, today wage growth is starting to move in the right direction. We know how to create a good economy for workers. It requires uniting around policy choices like investments in infrastructure, manufacturing, and our care economy with strong labor standards. Regardless of race or country of birth, we all do better when we unite for policies that grow jobs and wages.
